The ITC standards:

- education in an intercultural context
- teaching competencies for the internationally-minded teacher
- the language dimension
- student transition and mobility
- continuing professional development as an internationally-minded educator

"In terms of its content coverage and approach, the ITC must currently be considered a leader in its field."

Jeff Thompson, Professor Emeritus, University of Bath

"The ITC has enabled our school to have a deeper awareness of the benefits and challenges of belonging to an international community. It has given us the opportunity to further explore issues connected to our students, parents and staff and has increased our international-mindedness. We have been able to celebrate our different backgrounds and share these with the wider community."

Terry Hedger, Head of IB World School in the UK

The ITC is a one-year online program that features a three-day face-to-face institute.

The Online Orientation Course for ITC Dubai participants begins on 4 January 2011.
